Product Description

What distinguishes OUTBACK from most other bowls is its exceptionally natural look, with uneven, organic structures on the surface. It seems as if carved in wood, its basic shape is deliberately irregular. The look is inevitably reminiscent of the daring charm of the African wilderness. Such beautiful trays and vessels are also often found in luxurious lodges and accommodation on safaris. In fact, the elaborately hand-finished trays are made of aluminium, which was subsequently powder-coated in a no less elaborate process. Their matt black finish forms a wonderful contrast to the bright colours of fruits. But they can also be used to store fresh vegetables in the kitchen or wonderfully fragrant rolls, croissants and pastries at the breakfast table. In the entrance area, they take care of keys and accessories. Who would have thought that aluminium could be so beautiful?

Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
